SPEECH BY GOV. DAVIS.

At this point Gov Davis was introduced to the audience by ex-Gov. Perham.

"Governor Davis said he was glad to meet so many good men and women honest men and thinking women that were willing to meet here and discuss the temperance question, laws, and enforcement of laws. He had always found that if any small or great thing was to be accomplished, there must be agitation and discussion—that agitation of this great and important question and the discussion of the 'ways and means' had placed Maine to-day in its present enviable position."

He was proud to day to stand as a citizen of Maine, a State that stands second to no State in the Union on the great temperance question. He had a faith in the prohibitory law, believed in good honest laws, and those that can be enforced; recognized the effort of woman's movement, believed in this part of the State they had been an efficient means of helping their brothers in the temperance work—to stand up more boldly for the right, and maintain their principles of temperance.

He had not heard any of the recommendations offered by the convention, but presumed from the intelligent faces of the audience before him they must be earnest, and enthusiastic—and he had only one thing to ask, simply this:—If you make recommendations, make those that are consistent and reasonable, those can be carried out and sustained. Was glad that this important question had been taken into politics. That it was a political question, and must be decided by the ballot; that no political party dared oppose it. That he stood with this convention heart and hand in all honest purposes, used to promote the good of humanity.

The resolutions were taken up, debated and adopted, as follows:

First—That in the contest against the drinking system and the drink traffic we will urge an eternal warfare, and to this warfare we will use every instrumentality which God has placed in our hands until victory crowns our efforts.

Second—That no political party shall receive our support that does not recognize the iniquity of the liquor traffic and demand its destruction as essential to the public welfare.

Third—That the enforcement of the laws relating to the liquor traffic can be secured by adopting as a living principle the motto "Vote as you pray," and by holding parties and officials responsible for righteous laws and a non-partisan enforcement of the same.

Fourth—That all efforts to secure success at the polls by an alliance with those who are engaged in the liquor traffic is destructive to political morality and has our emphatic condemnation.

Fifth—That in view of the fact that in some localities in the State, county and municipal officers neglect or refuse to enforce the prohibitory law, we respectfully request the Legislature to enact a law providing for a State constabulary.

Sixth—That we recognize as one serious hindrance the indifference of many of our wealthy and influential citizens touching the suppression of the liquor traffic, and that we recommend the friends of temperance in all our communities to make special effort to bring this matter home to those who are ignorant and indifferent relative to the evils of intemperance in their midst.

Seventh—That the sale of cider for tippling purposes is from all points of view detrimental to the cause of temperance and morality, and we earnestly call upon the Legislature to provide enactments as shall absolutely prohibit the traffic.

Eighth—That we should employ every agency that we can command to educate the masses relative to the pernicious effects of the drinking system, and to this end we earnestly recommend the active dissemination of the truth from the pulpit, the platform and the press, and the circulation of temperance literature among all classes.

Ninth—That our future success lies in a large degree in the attention which we give to the education of the children upon the question, and for this purpose we earnestly recommend the introduction of temperance text books into all our common schools.

In the afternoon, after prayer by Rev. S. P. Smith, of Winthrop, the President read congratulatory letters from Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., Lewiston, Hon. Josiah Emery, Industry, Stephen Sewell, Esq. Winthrop.

Rev. James Boyd, from the committee on better enforcement of the law, presented the following:

Whereas, There is a criminal negligence on the part of the sheriffs in several counties to arrest and bring before the courts persons engaged in this liquor traffic, and on the part of the county attorneys in some counties in prosecuting cases before the courts,

Resolved, That the Legislature be requested to investigate the manner in which the liquor laws fail of enforcement in some of the counties, and that a committee be raised in this convention to appear before the Legislature to secure such an investigation, and to procure the enactment of laws compelling officers to do their duty, and such other laws as may be found necessary for the prevention of the liquor traffic to secure its enforcement.

The resolution was adopted, and it was moved that a committee of five be appointed to present the matter before the temperance committee of the legislature, and Hon. Sidney Perham, Rev. D. W. LeLacheur, R. W. Dunn, Hon. Joshua Nye, and J. K. Osgood were appointed to constitute that committee.

L. W. Starbird, Esq., of Dixmont, presented the following:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to draft a resolution or resolutions to be signed by the officers of this convention, and forwarded to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, requesting that Congress take measures to investigate the nature and effects of the drink traffic, and provide such legislation as shall forever suppress it.

The resolution was adopted, and Hon. Joshua Nye, L. W. Starbird, Job Sanford, J. W. Jacob and Eli Jones were appointed.

Excellent remarks were made by Messrs. J. H. McDonald, R. H. Murphy, of Portland, Jordan Rand, of Lisbon, A. J. Chase, of Portland, Mrs. Stevens, President and Mrs. Hunt, Secretary of Woman's Christian Union, Capt. Joseph Garcelon, of Lewiston and C. E. Chadbourne, of Saco. In the evening T. R. Simonton, Esq. spoke in a very able manner of wine and its evils.

The convention was one of the largest and best ever held in Maine.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Mr. Edward Grant, of Mechanic Falls, whose arm was badly injured by being caught in the steam rolls in the paper mill, about four months ago, was obliged to undergo a surgical operation on Tuesday, the cords of his arm, in healing, having contracted to such an extent as to draw the arm at a right angle and render it useless. It was accordingly cut in two places, and tissue transferred to those parts not already healed, the patient being under the influence of ether for over two hours. It is thought he will recover the use of his arm through the operation.

Many members of Auburn shoe manufacturing firms were in Boston, Wednesday, to meet Western and Southern buyers, and large sales were effected. The factories are making rousing shipments, which amounted last week to 2,270 cases against 1,633 cases the previous week and 1,104 cases in the corresponding week of last year. This week's shipments will also be very large. One day last week, one Auburn firm, Messrs. A. Cushman & Co., sent off over two hundred cases. Several firms are putting in new stitching machines.

An attempt was made Thursday, in the Supreme Court at Auburn, to naturalize a citizen who is a discharged prison convict, and make a Democratic voter out of him. In the course of examination, the unsavory record of the candidate leaked out. The attorney who appeared in his behalf was called upon for an explanation, and claimed that he was unaware that his man was an ex-convict. The attorney barely escaped a reprimand from the Court.

Business at the Lewiston Machine Company's Works is lively. Considerable machinery is being made for mills at the South as well as for the Cabot Mills at Brunswick.

Five bear skins were received by Mr. J. P. Longley, of Lewiston, the other day which are trophies of an old hunter's remarkable skill. Each skin has but one bullet hole in it, and in each of the five skins the one bullet hole is directly over the eye in the same relative position. The old hunter lives in Lincoln, Maine, and is sure death on bears.

The Portland Argus says: Upwards of five thousand cars have been loaded thus far this season, with freight from the English steamers, which is fourteen hundred more than for the same period last season. A large majority of this excess has gone to the Western states, principally Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis. The above facts demonstrate the superior facilities offered at this port for shipping.

Lincoln.

Capt. Emerson, of Jefferson, has taken the machinery out of the steamer "Lake Bello" and set it up in a building at Tobey's Corner, and is doing a good business in sawing barrel headings for Messrs. Mayhew & Allen. They have some seventy-five cords of nice pine lumber at the mill and are still getting out more.

An insane young man named Ezekiel Steadman, of Foxcroft, was taken to the Insane Asylum at Augusta on Wednesday morning in the charge of John K. Robbins. Mr. Steadman had previously showed signs of insanity.

Sagadahoc.

Monday evening, shortly after seven o'clock, as Mr. D. O. Gould, of Bath, was coming down street from tea, he noticed a dog with a man's hat in his mouth, running to and fro. Upon the opposite side of the street was the prostrate body of a gentleman, who proved to be Mr. J. P. Hitchcock, the well known ship builder. Mr. Hitchcock had left his home to call upon his partner, Mr. Z. H. Blair, and while walking up the hill had been seized, with the sudden attack which proved fatal. Mr. Gould, with the help of a neighbor, cared for the body. The deceased came to Bath from Damariscotta about thirty years ago, and has borne the highest character for business ability and christian probity. He had recently completed a fine residence, where his later years might be surrounded with the merited pleasures of a successful business career. His sudden death casts a feeling of sadness not only over his relatives, but upon the city of Bath.

Mathews Bros., of Belfast, on Monday, commenced to work their crew ten hours a day, which has not been done before, at this time of year, for six years. They are overrun with orders, and are working a large force. They will enlarge their mill as soon as spring opens.

The yacht mentioned last week as having been wrecked at Crow Cove, Islesboro, was the Surprise, owned by William Fatwell. The vessel was a total loss. The crew, who were without money, were brought to Belfast by the steamer May Queen.

News reached Belfast last week that Capt. Henry Partridge, of the bark Celestie, committed suicide recently at Australia by shooting himself. No other particulars are known. Capt. Partridge's home was in Prospect, where he leaves a wife and family.

A Belfast woman recently entered the house of a neighbor with her infant in her arms. Seeing the child's alleged grandfather present the woman asked him to hold her babe for a moment while she ran out. The woman has not been seen since and the child has been given over to Mr. Hayford, the keeper of the poor. The mother of the child is unmarried.

THE PRESIDENT.

EVERY COUNTY IN PENNSYLVANIA FOR BLAINE.

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

From all the indications of public sentiment which can be gathered from newspapers, from votes of Republicans at their recent primaries and from private sources, it is, we believe, within the bounds of truth to State that there is not a single county in Pennsylvania, a large majority of the votes of which are not in favor of the nomination of James G. Blaine, of Maine, for President. There has rarely been such unanimity, and every day adds to its strength. Notwithstanding this, it is true that, as a result of the action of the Harrisburg convention, the Pennsylvania delegates to Chicago are instructed to vote for another person, whose nomination the majority of the Republicans of not one county can be assumed to desire. There are many indications that the people will not rest till these delegates are given the opportunity of choosing which instructions they will follow, those of their own districts or those of the convention.

GRANT AND BLAINE IN NEW YORK.

[From the Utica Herald.]

If anyone has entertained a doubt of the surprising popularity of James G. Blaine among the Republican masses of New York State, that doubt will be set at rest by the action of the caucuses held in the City of Watertown yesterday. Outspoken Blaine men were elected delegates in every ward, and indeed no attempt was made to run delegates in the interest of any other candidate. In the Second Ward a division of the house showed 65 Blaine men to 6 Grant men. In the Third Ward a similar division showed 38 Blaine men and 3 Grant men. We believe that if a full and fair expression could be obtained throughout the State, unbiased by any other considerations, such as the desire to make a Chicago delegation for the advantage of those who are not themselves candidates for the nomination, the result would everywhere be about the same, as between these two men, Blaine and Grant.

BLAINE STRENGTH IN ILLINOIS AND OHIO.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Blaine booms are breaking forth in the most unexpected places. Even in Illinois he has more friends than Grant, Washburne and Sherman combined! The Chicago Times publishes interviews with more than 3000 representative Republicans of the State, and finds 4,282 for Blaine, 2,895 for Grant, 1,064 for Washburne, and 234 for Sherman. This doesn't foreshadow a solid Grant delegation to the National Convention. A scarcely less surprising development comes from Columbus, Ohio. A call for a Blaine meeting there on the 12th instant is published. It is prefaced with Colonel Ingersoll's famous speech, nominating Blaine at Cincinnati in 1876, and is signed by 2,000 Republicans of Columbus and Central Ohio, many of whom are said to be the ablest and most skilful workers in the party.

COLONEL INGERSOLL ON PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

[From an Interview in The Chicago Evening Journal.]

Blaine will have the most votes on the first ballot, I think. He will have four New England States, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, Michigan, California and half of the Southern States. The New England States will be Maine, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire. Possibly he will get Rhode Island. He would save Massachusetts this time had it not been for the speech which he made in which he gave the old Commonwealth a skinning about its action in the War of 1812. I think John Sherman will get some votes from the Southern States and the Ohio delegation, on account of his being Secretary of the Treasury. He is a good man and would make a good President. His brother being General of the army, I don't believe the American people would make him President. It would be giving too much power into the hands of one family. Besides, he has been connected with Hayes's administration, which would be a great load to carry. I don't think Grant will be a candidate; I don't think he wants it. There are men who are pushing him on their own account. Grant was a great soldier. He won the respect of the civilized world. He commanded the largest army that ever fought for freedom, and to make him President would not add a solitary leaf to the wreath of fame already on his brow; and should he be elected the only thing he could do would be to keep the old wreath from fading. There will be no dark-horse business this time. That was tried at Cincinnati, and that style of horse has grown remarkably unpopular. We want a horse of another color. I believe Blaine would run better than any other man; he is the only man we can with any certainty feel we can elect. There is a wide spread prejudice against a third term.

FACTS VS. IMAGINATION.

[From the Lewiston Journal.]

Last year when the opposition took charge of the State government it found the State in debt nearly $300,000, being the balance of the appropriations over the State revenues. Instead of resorting to the issuing of bonds, the legislature set to work cutting down expenditures. It reduced salaries, lopped off useless expenditures here and there, and the result was that the State Treasurer was able to wipe out that indebtedness without adding a single mill to the State tax.—Belfast Age.

Hold, Friend Age! That talk answered its purpose in the last campaign, when the fervid imagination of the fusion orators couldn't be held in check by official figures; but now we have before us the report of fusion Treasurer White, which is fatal to such loose talk as that in which the Age indulges.

On page 3 of Treasurer Banks' report for 1878, it will be found that when he turned over the State Treasury to his fusion successor on the first of Jan. 1879, there was $157,256 cash in Treasury, against which was a liability of $150,000 for money borrowed during 1878. This left $7,256 in the Treasury after discharging the liabilities of 1878. The school fund and mill tax liabilities reported as due annually on the first of January, are only nominally such, as they lap over from year to year, and are provided for by special taxes.

On page 3 of fusion Treasurer White's report for 1879, it will be found that he turned over to his successor, Treasurer Holbrook, at the beginning of the present year, only $69,413, against which he left a liability of $125,000 for money borrowed during the year, leaving a deficit of $55,587.

In other words the Republicans turned over the State to the fusionists with enough money in the Treasury to pay the floating indebtedness, and $7,256 to spare. The fusionists left the State House with a Treasury that is $55,587 worse off than nothing—to say nothing of the large expense incurred for Capt. Black's police and counting-out operations.

The fusion State government didn't "wipe out" the floating indebtedness of $150,000 that they found. They paid that note, to be sure, but they borrowed $125,000 to do it with, which will have to be paid this year; and they left $97,000 less in the treasury than the Republicans did. In 1878 the Republican State government paid $25,000 on the principal of the State debt; in 1879 the fusionists paid nothing. The only reason that the latter did not issue any bonds last year, was because none of the State debt became due. This year, $407,000 of the 6 per cent. debt becomes due, and it is proposed to issue new 4 or 4½ per ct. bonds, payable in one, two and three years, to take it up. Nobody proposes to issue bonds to meet current expenditures.

NEW HAMPSHIRE SENTIMENT.

[From the Concord Monitor.]

We observe a systematic effort in certain quarters to give a wrong impression touching the sentiment developed at the State Committee meeting, last evening, with reference to Presidential candidates. Now this was unmistakable, and no good purpose is subserved in trying to obscure the fact that the feeling for Blaine was decidedly in the ascendant, and that he was either the first, or second choice of eight-tenths of all present. We feel sure from all that we saw and heard last evening, and from information obtained from other sources, that if a single delegate is chosen hostile to Mr. Blaine he will owe his election to intrigue and deception, and not the votes of the Republican masses.

A canvass of 300 representative Republicans in Sussex county, N. J., shows that 190 prefer Mr. Blaine, 66 Gen. Grant, 32 Secretary Sherman, 6 Mr. Washburne, and 6 Gen. Garfield.—Boston Journal.

Why don't the boomers who are anxious for a coalition try a turnabout and make it Blaine and Grant? That would remove the third term objection and recognize the popular Republican demand at the same time.—Tribune.

The Tribune says: "The State of Maine is to be congratulated, Pillsbury, the originator of the late unsuccessful burglary, has decided to take up his abode in Boston, 'to practice his profession.' Every holder of a burglar-alarm patent, with an eye to business, will flood Boston with agents immediately."

The N. Y. Tribune publishes half a dozen columns of responses to circulars sent to the Republican town and county committeemen throughout Pennsylvania, asking their Presidential preference. These men are the most active Republicans and would be supposed to be much affected by the Cameron influence as any class, but out of 267 committemen already heard from 216 reply that Senator Blaine is their own and the people's first choice! The letters are enthusiastic and emphatic in attesting the popularity of Mr. Blaine.

The True Idea of Life Insurance.

Life insurance treats every productive life as capital, as having a definite, absolute value in money—not to itself, but to some one else who depends upon the continuance and productiveness of that life for the accomplishment of certain pecuniary results which are endangered by the liability that the life may prematurely fail; against this danger it offers indemnity. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. The Sub-Committee of the House Election Committee [illegible] to agree upon a report in the Donnelly-Washburne (Minnesota) case. They decided to make no written report, but that each member should verbally state his views at a meeting of the full committee on Tuesday.

The full committee will [illegible] each of their number to prepare a report in accordance with the views of a majority as expressed by a vote to be taken on that day. The statement that the committee has already agreed upon a report favoring the seating of Donnelly is premature, although it is generally [illegible] [illegible] that the majority will so vote. It is stated that there will be a majority and minority report submitted to the House, and the presumption seems to be well founded that the majority report will favor Donnelly.

A HANDSOME PRESENT. Mr. F. A. Owen received an agreeable surprise last week on being made the recipient of an elegant volume of poems, from the class of '80, Bangor High School. This valuable present, which was wholly unexpected, was given as a token of their appreciation of the services kindly rendered by Mr. Owen, on the occasion of the school exhibition a short time since.

A GOOD IDEA. A new arrangement has gone into effect on the Maine Central Railroad which will be appreciated by the traveling public. After the train leaves each station the conductor, while passing through the cars to take up the tickets of any new passengers, announces the name of the next station. This gives the passengers ample time to make their arrangements to leave the cars before the train stops and does away with all confusion.

BANGOR ACADEMY. A correspondent writes: The people of Bangor take pleasure in announcing that in the spring, the old Academy at Bangor Corner will be re-established. An effort will be made, both upon the part of the teacher and officers of the institution, to place the school upon a firm basis. The strength of the people lies in their intelligence. The school will be continued under H. B. Chapman, principal, and Miss Jennie F. Chapman, preceptress. Term to begin March 1st, and continue eight weeks.

DRUNKEN TRAMPS. Officer Smart found two tramps up on York street yesterday afternoon in a drunken condition and making a disturbance. He took them both and started for the station house, but as the fellows were not disposed to go with him he had considerable difficulty, until some citizens rendered assistance. They came across the bridge, followed by the usual crowd, where they were met by Officers Bowie and Wyman who then took hold of the fellows and they were soon placed behind the grates.

"OUR BOYS". It will be seen by reference to another column that the [illegible] "Our Boys" will be repeated at the Unitarian church next Tuesday evening, under the direction of Mr. W. R. McGown.—Some additional songs will be introduced and the entertainment will undoubtedly attract a large audience, as all were very much pleased with the opening at the first performance. The price of admission will be fifteen cents. Supper will be served from six until seven o'clock.

LITERARY. A meeting of the Hammond street Congregational Literary Society was held on Friday evening at Mr. Geo. H. [illegible]'s on Hammond street. The programme, which had been carefully arranged, was highly appreciated by the large number present and the evening was passed in a most enjoyable manner. The organization of this society has met with general approval, and its successful beginning is very gratifying to those interested.

COMING TOUR. Wednesday evening of this week Mr. M. [illegible] will [illegible] his orchestra and a quartette, comprising Mrs. [illegible], Miss [illegible], Mr. [illegible] and Mr. [illegible] to [illegible], where they will give an entertainment. Mr. Andrews will make a popular manager for such a tour, and we can assure the citizens of the places mentioned that the entertainment will be one of marked excellence.

REFORM SCHOOL. A committee from the Senate and House of Representatives visited the State Reform School Friday. The committee went from Augusta on the noon train and were met at Woodford's Corner by Superintendent Farrar and Mr. Little chairman of the Board of Trustees, and taken to the Reform School in teams. After the departments were inspected a grand reception was held in the large school-room by the boys and officers of the institution in presence of the visitors. After the exercises were over, the members of the committee and Board of Trustees made brief addresses, in which they expressed themselves as being well pleased with the institution. In the evening the committee listened to the reports of the Superintendent and Trustees, and examined the schools, which are divided into three grades. The committee remained at the institution over night and continued their examination Saturday morning.

HUMPTY DUMPTY. On Tuesday Col. Nick Roberts, the popular manager, will appear in this city with his celebrated Humpty Dumpty. The Quincy (Ill.) Whig, in a long criticism, says: "The performance was enthusiastically received and was greeted throughout the three acts with shouts of laughter, the specialties meeting with round after round of applause. Mr. Roberts' company is a good one, and his specialty performers are fine. The three clowns are as funny as an audience could wish. Miss Grimaldi is a pleasing Columbine, Mr. Ravel is recognized as the finest Harlequin on the stage and deserved that honor. All the others are good. A taking feature is the baby elephant in the opening, one of the most ludicrous acts ever put on the stage. Col. Roberts' band is the best that has ever visited the city with a performance. The orchestra last night was applauded almost as much as the performance." Reserved seats are now on sale without extra charge, at D. Bugbee & Co.'s.

A GOOD CATCH. Last Friday night a fellow named Curtis, who has been employed around the Hamblin Iron Works, stole a purse containing twenty-seven dollars from a widow lady by the name of Mrs. Walker, a boarding house keeper at that place. The theft was discovered Saturday morning when it was also learned that Curtis had traveled to [illegible] and taken the cars for this city. The lady naturally felt very badly as the loss was a severe one to her, and Mr. A. J. Hurd volunteered to follow the fellow, and secure his arrest if possible. He drove to a neighboring town and procured a [illegible] after which he started for this city, where he arrived [illegible] [illegible]. The warrant was placed in the hands of Marshal Reed who gave the [illegible] a description of the man and Officer Allen started his hunt right on York street. He was passing the York Hotel house when he saw a man [illegible] on the steps who answered the description. [illegible] and Curtis were [illegible] when he gave up the money [illegible] that he would [illegible]. Officer Allen stepped into the house and learned that the fellow was from the [illegible] Iron Works, but when he returned the fellow was walking away rapidly. He was soon overtaken, however, and told [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a new suit of clothes.

station. Mr. Murdock, who identified him, will return to-day and send a constable after the prisoner.

BANGOR REFORM CLUB. Notwithstanding the unsettled condition of the weather a large audience greeted the Bangor Reform Club at their regular Sunday afternoon meeting in City Hall. The meeting was opened with reading the Scriptures by Mrs. Pickard, of the Crusade, followed with prayer by Chaplain Spencer, of the Club. Interesting remarks were made by Messrs. Davies, Chalmers, Mason, Trickey, Sargent, Norwood, Lincoln and McFarland of the Club, followed with remarks by Mrs. Prentiss, Mrs. Crossman and Mrs. Fisher, of the Crusade; also by Mr. Bandy, of the Enfield Reform Club. The meeting closed by singing "Precious Promise."

QUITE AN ADVENTURE.

Took the Wrong Train—How the Difficulty was Overcome.

Saturday morning two ladies arrived in the city on the Pullman train with the intention of proceeding to St. John. One of them had been visiting a sick relative in Massachusetts and was returning home to join her husband, who was going to sail for Europe to-day, and the other, who had been visiting in Baltimore, was also returning home to join her husband, master of a sailing vessel. She was expecting to meet him in Baltimore and waited two days after hearing that the vessel had been signaled, when she learned that her husband had received orders by means of a tug boat directing him to take his cargo to St. John. After arriving in this city they walked around the depot until time for the train to depart, when some one misdirected them so that they took the train for Boston again.

They soon discovered their mistake and left the cars at Newport, where Mr. Beal, proprietor of the Bangor House, learned their story and told them that if they would return with him on the next train, he would try and assist them. As soon as the train arrived in this city Mr. Beal called on Superintendent Cram, and learned that a special train would start for Vanceboro at six o'clock, making connections with a freight for St. John. He informed Superintendent Cram of the circumstances regarding the ladies and with his usual courtesy and kindness, Mr. Cram at once said that he would attach a special passenger car to the train, so that the ladies could continue their journey without much delay. In the meantime it had been ascertained by the telegraph that the sea captain was waiting for his wife at Vanceboro, and being informed of the new arrangement he took the cars coming this way and met his wife, whom he had not seen for several years, at Oldtown. By means of this conveyance the party will arrive in St. John at half-past ten this morning in ample time to accomplish their purpose.

A BIRD IN THE AIR.

BY PHILIP COOMBS.

I.

A queer little bird is flitting around,
Eagerly picking up tit-bits of sound,
Hopping about on Humanity's tree,
Quick as a flash, and as brisk as a bee.

II.

It imitates every possible noise;
The giggling of girls, the shouting of boys,
The lowing of herds, the bleating of sheep,
The thunder's roll, and the surge of the deep.

III.

It constantly flits on a noiseless wing,
But every one listens to hear it sing,
It laughs, and it cries, it can sneeze and snore,
It is fluent in language, and versed in lore.

IV.

This species of bird has never been known
Among all the birds that ever have flown:
'Twas not with those that went into the ark;
And it cannot be classed with the modern lark.

V.

But the Ornithologists everywhere
Are sorely puzzled, they gape and they stare.
They say for its like they have ransacked space,
And they fear it belongs to the humbug race.

VI.

Others besides scientific savants
Are scratching their heads, and wringing their hands,
For the fancy tricks of this little sprite
Are enough to put the world in a fright.

VII.

It seemingly reproduces at will
The prima-donna's most wonderful trill;
And the parson's intonations at church,
And the yell expressed by the master's birch.

VIII.

It has been known to repeat to the maid
What master and mistress in private said.
And it told some guests as they went away,
What their hostess behind them had to say.

IX.

A party of gents and ladies one eve
Were gossiping slander hard to believe.
Next morning they saw in the public prints,
Full reports of their kind and gentle hints.

X.

Two lovers once in Humanity's tree,
Were billing and cooing where none could see.
Ere they left the spot, all their plighted vows
Were told to a bevy of girls and beaux.

XI.

A desperate set of plum-eaters bold,
In secrecy met, while their plans they told:
But ere they had bagged the coveted prize
They were bagged themselves by the police spies.

XII.

Business, and politics, music, and fun,
Thieving, and everything under the sun,
Must be conducted more cautiously far,
Or against this bird they must all make war.

XIII.

Let every one join, and be sure not fail
To sprinkle a little salt on its tail.
But if you cannot, you must choose one way:
Cut off your tongue, or take care what you say.

Said real estate is the same described in the inventory of said deceased's estate on file in the Registry of Probate of said County.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of John F. Phillips, late of Glenburn, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased, are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him power to sell, by license at public or private sale and convey the whole of the real estate described real estate of the deceased, (including the reversion of the widow's dower thereon) as the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion, viz: The homestead farm of the deceased, containing fifty-one acres more or less, and known as the Ministerial or school lot, and 17 acres of meadow land in [illegible], in said Glenburn, to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County, Vol. [illegible], page [illegible].
